When you and your child experience Rockwell Collins Day at The Iowa Children's Museum, learning fundamentals of engineering will feel like child's play. It's a day of exploration, where museum admission is free and curiosity is wildly encouraged.

Come for the chance to conduct experiments and do other activities with real engineers from Rockwell Collins. Stay for the Rockwell Collins Road Show, a highly interactive, educational and entertaining adventure into the science of engineering, with performances throughout the day.

And if that's not enough, there will be kid prizes, too!
